OUR UNIQUE FACTOR

ENGAGEMENT MODELS

We believe that we enable your business to make a partnership with us in ways that suit your business requirement and goals. That means our designed engagement models are suitable and beneficial for your any needs of project because they propose competitive prices, dedicated resources, no hidden costs, and zero overheads. We want to work with you to the best of our abilities

TIME AND MATERIAL MODEL

We extend the services of our dedicated resources to serve to the needs of our clients. It enables us to implement a streamlined procedures and quality frameworks at the clients end through a dedicated team of project managers, trained developers, etc. we also provide proper infrastructure and equipments as per the clients requirements.

CONTRACTUAL MODEL

Under this model, we estimate the efforts after understanding the exact requirements. This type of model is best suited for those who have a detailed workscope and clear vision for how their applications will be developed and maintained. This model involves a fixed price in which the client can pay a pre-determined price that has been mutually agreed at the beginning stages of the contract

DEDICATED MODEL

This type of model is perfect for long term engagements that require stable resources. Here the client can have full control over the team and technical resources. Depends on requirement this model offers highly technical and senior resources who work seamlessly as part of client's team to provide quality, unique and project-specific solutions. The most important factors of this model are complete control on the project, transparency and day to day communication with the resources for the better management.

CLIENTS SPEAKS

Krify team has worked really well for us, and we haven't used any other developers since we started working with Krify."Their quick turn-around and prompt answers to emails and conference calls are impressive." I would happily recommend Krify to others and we will be using them for future projects as well.

Krify is an absolutely fantastic organization to work with. I contacted them the first time for my mobile app development project and it proved to be the best decision I took. The team helped me immensely in building my application. They follow established methodologies and processes for development, testing, and quality assurance. The team was always available for questions, feedback, and insights throughout the project.
